Election Q&A and Zoom Etiquette

Who are Voting Members

Voting members are associates who have paid their dues according to their membership category as defined in article 4 of the OCIA Bylaws and have voting privileges as defined in articles 7.4.1-5. Voting members include: Certified Producers at Large, Certified Processor/Handlers, Community Grower Groups, Cooperatives & Chapters who have paid their membership dues

How many votes do the different members get?

If membership dues are paid, Processors/ Handlers, Producers at Large & Cooperatives have one vote per member. Community Grower Groups are entitled 5 votes. Community Grower Groups or Cooperatives who are members of a chapter count only as a single member towards the chapters voting rights.

Chapters: Ten votes for the first 10 Members, 2 votes for each additional 10 certified Members, and Chapter CGGs will be counted as 1 vote for each 3 Chapter CGGs.

Who can be a Voting Delegate

Delegates are individuals who are from within the member organization: for chapters and CGG's this implies that a delegate will be a member of the chapter or of the collective. For Processor/Handlers or Producers at Large; a delegate is an individual who has a structural link with the member such as an employee, share holder, marketing agent, or a consultant under contract or retainer.

If a Member has more than one vote, can the votes be split up between delegates?

At an in-person meeting, voting paddles can be divided between chapter delegates at the registration table. During a virtual meeting, only one person will be able to hold the votes and voting will be done by verbal roll-call and not paddles.

What if a member can't attend the AGMM, can they still vote?

Yes. Every member holding voting rights is entitled to vote at the AGMM by proxy. The member must find a delegate that would be willing to carry their proxy and vote according to their wishes. Remember, Voting members can only carry two proxies in addition to their own votes. This means that a chapter can only carry two proxies and not each delegate of the chapter. Proxies must be fully completed and emailed to OCIA by January 15th.

What if I want to nominate someone for a Board of Director opening?

For this year's virtual meeting, you'll have until the day before the Annual Meeting to email your signed Board Nomination Form to Brandon Hill, Nomination Committee Chair, bbhill@gmail.com

How can I learn more about Zoom before the annual meeting?

Zoom.com has several tutorials on their website. Just contact OCIA staff if you would like a one-on-one run through, to make sure everything is working on your computer before the meeting.

What is meant by Zoom etiquette?

Not all attendees will have audio and video capabilities during the AGMM webinar – only the panelists (board, voting delegates, staff and election committee). If you do have audio capabilities, please stay on 'mute' until you speak, in order to eliminate background noise and know that everyone will be able to see your surroundings when your camera is on. For attendees who do not have audio/video, questions can still be asked by typing in the chat box area (visible to all) or the Q&A area (visible only to the moderator).
